Edible Landscapes

To model using landscapes and planters to grow food, we are experimenting at St. Luke's. Al and Sue Hattel, for many years, have generously planted and tended the landscaped areas in front of the church and the planters on the portico. This year, they agreed to experiment with some edibles in those areas. Some of the plants are growing vigorously, some have been nibbled by animals and insects and some have just mysteriously given up. Like all gardening, it is a constant learning experience. But the 100s of people who walk by our church are viewing our efforts, and one never knows when it might spark an interest in trying edible landscaping. It is one small way to model "green living."

— St. Luke's Green Team
